Sample Document for RAG Chatbot

This is a sample PDF document that contains information about artificial intelligence.

Machine learning is a subset of artificial intelligence that enables computers to learn and improve from experience without being explicitly programmed.

Natural language processing is another important area of AI that deals with the interaction between computers and human language.

Deep learning uses neural networks with multiple layers to model and understand complex patterns in data.